Media Literacy: A System for Change

Featuring the Center for Media Literacy's Five Core Concepts and Five Key Questions

*Tessa Jolls, President
Center for Media Literacy*

Professional Development Module

Goals

- Understand our relationship with media
- Explore the convergence of media, technology and education
- Explore how to apply media literacy tools in a general way

Challenge: Media, Technology, Education

- ALL media are educational
- All media are carefully manufactured, technology-driven cultural products
- Media may be entertaining...but media are NOT “just entertainment”
- Engagement with media means having a relationship with media
- Media content is everywhere...we need process skills (analysis/critical thinking)
- Process skills take time and practice to learn
- Process skills + Content Knowledge = Lifelong Learning

The Media Triangle

- Exploring our relationship with media
- Changing the dynamics challenges the status quo and the power (Source: Eddie Dick, Scottish Media Council)

Challenge: Media, Technology, Education

- Efficient managers of information media
- Wise consumers of information media
- Responsible producers of media
- Effective participants in society, capable of representing self and others

The Education Challenge

“Most of what we have called formal education has been intended to imprint on the human mind all of the information that we might need for a lifetime. Education is geared toward information storage.

“Today that is neither possible nor necessary. Rather, humankind needs to be taught how to process information that is stored through technology. Education needs to be geared toward the handling of data rather than the accumulation of data.” -- David Berlo, Communication and Behavior, 1975

What is Media Literacy?

A definition:

Media Literacy is a 21st century approach to education.

It provides a framework to access, analyze, evaluate, create and participate with messages in a variety of forms - from print to video to the Internet.

Media Literacy builds an understanding of the role of media in society, as well as essential skills of inquiry and self-expression necessary for citizens of a democracy.

What is Not Media Literacy?

- ⊘ Media bashing is not media literacy, however media literacy sometimes involves criticizing the media.
- ⊘ Media production is not media literacy; although media literacy should include media production.
- ⊘ Teaching with media is not media literacy; one must also teach about media.
- ⊘ Media literacy does not mean ‘don’t watch’; it means ‘watch carefully; think critically.’

World-Wide Media Literacy

- World-wide culture demands world-wide media literacy skills.
- Other countries are very active in addressing media literacy.

media literacy is to make wise choices possible.

YOU are brought to the sponsor by this program.

Who has the power in the relationship?

The Media Triangle

Now we have a deeper understanding of our relationship with media! Now we are better prepared to exercise our power and our responsibility with media in a more balanced and enlightened way.

World-Wide Application

The PROFIT motive is typically behind mass media production...but today, the internet provides world-wide platforms for POWER motives.

Example: Martin Luther King Jr. Website
